

Uncle Lem's Sayings

The country at large feels a great sense of relief that Congress, which has been dominated by the "wild asses of the Prairie" has adjourned and left Calvin at the helm, to steer the Ship of State until next December.

The dosing hours of the session of the Senate was cultivated by one of the most spectacular and colorful characters in which ever took place in that body, and more strangely enough, the principals were two cousins by the name of Reed—Jim of Missouri and Dave of Nebraska. Both were "rambunctious," no matter whether in public life or out. Woodward Wilson characterized him as a wilful man, and declared that he was "a good deal of a fellow," but conditions favored him and he was elected. Dave is a more quiet and modest man, but has suddenly risen to national fame as downing Jim. He was killed, however, in his fight by Senators George H. Moses of New Hampshire and Cole Blanton of South Carolina.

And who cares a rap what it was all about? Everything was just slight of in the country at large, but the politicians. When Jim gave notice that unless his warring commission was brought to a speedy trial, he would resign, the country was in a state of confusion and corruption at the election of November 1926 was extended beyond the 4th of March, he would, under the rules of the Senate, hold up all legislation for the remainder of the session.

The result of the election was that neither of those much authority and it became of the first importance to teach him a lesson, and he got it good.

The two

subject of was also leading a long, lonely life. He was only 28 years old when he was killed. He was a very handsome man, and was very popular. He was a very brave man, and was very loyal to his country. He was a very good man, and was very kind to his friends. He was a very honest man, and was very fair to his enemies. He was a very brave man, and was very loyal to his country. He was a very good man, and was very kind to his friends. He was a very honest man, and was very fair to his enemies.

The Boston Herald says that the column for the defeat of Jim's resolution took in Dave. Your Uncle Lemuel thinks the odium, so far as Dave is concerned, can be blown away with a guffaw and that the "odium" rests on Jim's shoulders. For preventing the passage of such acts as the deficiency bill. And what "odium" falling on Dave does not equally fall upon Senators Moses and Blaise? This looks like "pussy tooting" such as was shown in the editorial treatment of the Columbia University professors when by their heedlessness, not to use a stronger term, they embarrassed the Government by their impracticable pretensions to reconsider the foreign debts settlements.

Senator Cole Blaise had a personal interest in the filibuster. He could see "the nigger in the wood pile" and didn't want any investigation of the election.

down in South Carolina. Wise old man! It would do no good, but only would cause more hatred between the races. The great mistake was made after the Civil War, in giving the ballot to an ignorant people, who were not fitted for it. Had President Lincoln lived, this would not have been. Better now to let the situation alone, to work out its own remedy.

It is said that Jim will continue his investigations. This is not likely. There is no appropriation to pay the expenses. The old Congress is dead, the new one began on the afternoon of March 4th, when all its members, appearing by certificate of election filed, commenced the day's work. If we remember correctly, Jim was not re-elected, and his term as Senator expired with the 69th Congress. As a presidential candidate, he would cut a sorry figure in a contest with Al Smith.

The filibusterers let up long enough for the Senate to adopt the report of the Committee on Elections, drawn up by Senator George of Georgia, exonerating Senator Arthur R. Gould of Maine from any corruption in his contest for his seat, which he was entitled to retain.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint creases. A dark, possibly black, binding edge is visible along the right side of the page. There is no text or other markings on the page.

This image shows a vertical strip of a book cover. The left portion is a dark, heavily textured material, possibly marbled paper or a dark cloth, with some faint, illegible markings. The right portion is a lighter, smoother material, likely leather or a light-colored cloth, which appears to be the spine or a hinge of the book. The overall appearance is aged and worn.

Shall Maine Develop Its Own Power?

By R. L. Cummings of West Paris

Former Governor Baxter, in his recent address, has brought into the open the question of the greatest economic question that has ever been presented to the people of this State. The question is simply this: Shall Maine develop its own power for the use of all who live and do business within its borders at cost of production, or shall we give this greatest of our natural resources to private individuals and then we and all those who come after us, pay this great power system three times that amount? Free discussion of this great question is all that we can ask for, and it is all that these gentlemen have to fear. The facts concerning the great Ontario project and hundreds of smaller ones in this country, prove beyond any doubt that the price we pay, 10c per Kw. hour, is three times the economic price for power and well conducted plants. The great plea of these gentlemen who wish to have this great resource of the State placed in their hands, is, that it can best be done by private corporations. "Proper safeguards for the public," they continue to fool the public by this heavy old hoax that they pretend will protect the public. Let us see what has happened to us through these "proper safeguards," in the power, like our railroads, is by nature a natural monopoly. They are necessarily granted rights that no individual must come under restrictions that would not be placed on any individual. A railroad is under obligation to carry goods for anyone who offers them, at the same rate, while an individual may charge as he pleases and carry for whom he chooses. That is law. However, Standard Oil obtained its commanding position in the oil business, first through rebates obtained from railroads; even to the extent that they drew one dollar barrel rebate on all the oil shipped to themselves and their companies. Judge Lowell stated the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana (that famous dissolution) $29,000,000 for violation of laws. They never paid a penny.

The formation of all of these great monopolies was against law, or what was against law? Can a single instance be shown in which one of the great corporations has made proper restitution to the public? There is no such instance. The crooks in the Sugar Trust went to a federal prison. Theodore Roosevelt was an earthly monarch. He had nothing to fear lately because we pay $270.00 freight on a ton of grain from the west where it cost $75.00 to $100.00, and the price that in recent years we have paid for it is $5.70 freight per barrel to get it to market. It is because these "proper safeguards" do not protect us as safeguards for us at all. Consider the condition of our railroad properties of a few years ago. The New York, New Haven & Hartford, one of the best in the world serving a territory second to none in the world for wealth. Boston & Maine, as sure a dividend payer as could well be found. Officially valued at $190.00 for every hundred dollar share; the Maine Central at $100.00 and earning some such in dividends that reconstruction was charged up as operating expense.

In a few years these railroads were practically bankrupt and the public would have been better served had an honest receivership been appointed. If any intelligent person wishes to know without a shadow of a doubt how this was accomplished, let them read the investigation of the N. Y. N. H. & H. by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The entire history of American railroads reconstruction and operation is filled with money promoted by insiders who have robbed and the public were robbed to enrich those who managed them. Then when the property had become bankrupt and on the public to pay rates that kept them up again even while the management were still milking them, in spite of these "proper safeguards." Let one instance of these transactions suffice. The New York, Boston & West Chester R. R. (called) was what we should class as a promotion scheme, and had but eighteen and three one-hundredths miles of road, running behind over one and one-half million dollars per year. Its character was of doubtful validity.

Let in a meeting of the directors of the N. Y. N. H. & H. (whose directors were J. P. Morgan, Rockefeller and Miller) President Mellin in the chair, they loaded onto the New York, New Haven & Hartford road the $34,400,000.00 of that worthless stock that Mr. Mellin testified that investigation was worth about a pound for its full face value. Their findings, the Interstate Commerce Commission said: "Are not these three wires?" This $34,400,000.00 was paid to parties from J. P. Morgan & Co. but the books that should have shown whom the amounts were paid, were altered. That was a "proper safeguard" was it not?

When a gipsy lady asks you to let her see your money while she tells you her fortune and blesses your business so that you will be very prosperous, what do you say? Well, when these gentlemen ask you to turn over to them the natural resources that are indispensable to the people of this state not only for this generation but for all the future generations, as the present man can see, in order that you may have great prosperity, should we say to them, "In what way should we place such unbounded confidence in a New York Gipsy or a Gipsy Jew? My humble opinion is that we should take precautions of our own and let them retain for other use, these 'proper safeguards' which they are so anxious to have?"

any humble point of view, I thought that was just what they were doing, when they elected W. J. Thompson to master. When the official then elected spoke for himself, on railroads a few million dollars, I thought he was serving them well. When Gov. Baxter vetoed the gift to these gentlemen, of the Dead River Storage, and then our legislature passed it over his veto, the Governor started for a referendum to the people at the fall election, so that the people could think the matter over and turn out and vote. When this official then elected sided with these corporate gentlemen, to hasten that referendum to some very busy time when farmers can hardly get away from their work, and sent papers to all the subordinate granges to have them pass resolutions to prevent that referendum from coming at the time of said regular election, I still thought he was serving those interests that I thought caused his election.

The events of that referendum showed that the Grangers of this State of Maine had a way of forming their own opinion on those matters and I think these gentlemen will find that they have not changed their minds. They did not seem to be given to these poor companies of that privilege that is worth more than a million dollars, or that the taxes on railroads should be reduced a few million dollars so that a corresponding amount might be assessed on themselves. Every monopoly, or we may say, the great trusts, that obtain the enormous profits that have been made and are now being made, were created in defiance of the letter as well as the spirit of the law and the intent of the public. What used to be thought to be proper safeguards were placed to protect the public. The result has been similar to the results obtained in the attempts to limit slavery. At the time the constitution was adopted, Virginia as well as the northern states, believed in the prohibition of slavery. When it became immensely profitable, they defied it by "Divine right" and their "rights." When our shrewd business men see the opportunity to make them and their associates millionaires and billionaires, no safeguards in the form of laws limiting them to do honorable honest business will ever stand between them and their objects. When the public owns these great rights, then they can never take them away any more than they can go back to slavery days.—R. L. Cummings.

BETHEL

Public Whist Party—Good Crowd Attended Drama—Thurston-Park Marriage.

It is very evident that Bethel will be in the line of progress in road breaking. This winter has shown the benefit derived by the use of snow plows. The Grange Circle served dinner town meeting day. Much sympathy is felt for Miss Kate Howe in the loss of her niece, Miss Marie Kendrick, who was a teacher at the University of Maine. Miss Kendrick's mother and sister passed away recently and in her death, Miss Howe sustains the loss of a dear sister and two nieces within a year.

Prof. F. E. Hanscom has quite recovered from his recent illness. Town meeting, the 7th, was largely attended. Many ladies were present, a larger number than heretofore. The Rev. Herman J. Wills preached at the Congregational Church last Sunday; the evening service was a union service conducted by the Village Council. The message was given by Mr. Abner Ayer, a teacher at Gould Academy.

The ladies of the Congregational Church served a public supper, March 10. Mrs. Annie Willey recently returned from Boston, where she attended the military opening. A public whist party was held at the William Bingham gymnasium, Saturday evening.

E. F. Peterkin has been fortunate in getting his lumbering activities finished in Roxbury and Byron while the roads were in good condition; his teams came out, Friday.

The seniors at Gould's are rehearsing Booth Tarkington's popular play, "Clarence," for presentation in the near future.

The play, "Are You a Mason?" again called out a record attendance when repeated on Wednesday evening. Announcement of the marriage, in New York, of Paul C. Thurston and Miss Helen Park, has been received by Bethel people. They are now on a trip to Germany and Austria. The good wishes of all are extended to them.

Mrs. Ella Clark was a Sunday visitor to Mrs. A. E. K. Grover. The relatives and friends of Mrs. Anna Stearns were very sorry to know of her severe illness. She is with her son, Benjamin Stearns, in Londonderry, N. H.; her sister, Mrs. Isaac Wardwell, of Albany has gone to be with her for a time. Favorable reports are hoped for.

CASCO

The regular Grange meeting was held Saturday evening with an attendance of thirty. A social evening was spent; cake, sandwiches and cocoa were served for refreshments. Schools in town close this week for a short vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton C. Hutchins from Bethel, Ervin Hutchinson from Locke Mills and Miss R. R. Mayberry were Sunday guests at Pleasant View Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hutchinson. Alton Tyler from West Bethel was at his farm, "Obblestone," on business, Monday.

Mrs. Frances M. Whitman is the guest of relatives in Berlin, Milan and Dummer, N. H. Mrs. Sarah Kendall, who has been with her sister, Mrs. Bertha Mudd and assisting in the care of their aged mother, who is ill, has returned to Cambridge, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Whitman and family called on friends in Mason, Sunday afternoon.

CRESCENT LAKE

Mrs. Harriet Fratez of Massachusetts is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burgess.

Mrs. George Oliver is a guest of her relatives in New Bedford, Mass. Mrs. Maud Edwards and two children of Mayberry Hill were at George Burgess' Saturday.

Captain Blake of Naples took supper at H. C. McAllister's, Tuesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Austin, who have been in camp at Casco, returned to their home on Maple Ridge, Harrison, Tuesday.

Mrs. George Winslow has been helping at the central office the past week. Mr. Neal, who has had charge of the lumbering operation at Hog Meadow, has gone to Edes Falls, or in that vicinity, where there is to be a large lot of lumber cut and saved.

SUMNER—LABRADOR POND

Lawrence Andrews is convalescent from his recent ill turn. Leland Andrews has completed his work in Auburn and the family are soon to return to their home in Hartford.

Della Andrews has been suffering the past week with an absence on her face. Lena Andrews recently visited Ellen Ames at South Paris.

The Great New Light DUPLEX-A-LITE

Like the sunset from the sky Without a glare to hurt the eye

GOVERNMENT investigators have found that approximately 25% to 30% of the children in public schools have defective vision, and the alarming fact is that this percentage increases with grade progress through the schools. The Government has published quite a large pamphlet "The Eyesight of School Children," treating on this condition. It cites as one of the principal causes the poor lighting by which children read, write, study and do their lessons at home. Even adults' eyes are affected in the same way, although there are no places like schools in which to gather statistics. The installation of Duplex-a-lite in America's homes will remedy this condition.

SCIENCE and Art together have developed the perfect light—Duplex-a-lite. The light that banishes glare and gloom—the light that conserves eyesight.

After many months of careful study we now make this truly unusual offer as a service to our customers. To all—we give an opportunity to install this modern and decorative light at special low prices and on remarkably easy terms.

This practical Duplex-a-lite floods an entire room with warm sunshine. It provides you home lighting to suit your taste—and eyes. The light is always soft, well diffused and pleasing.
